

Boundary Bay Regional Park & Dyke: June 19, 2022

This scenic walk starts near the community of Tsawwassen and follows a curving shoreline trail. Our group was immediately treated to the presence of many large birds such as eagles, herons and hawks. The path leaves the park after about 1.5 km, and we passed through the neighbourhood of Beach Grove before reaching the dyke itself. Looking back, we could see the bluffs of Point Roberts and to the south the San Juan Islands. More birds made their presence known including finches, martins and swallows. About 6 km from our start, we retraced our steps to the parking lot as the weather brightened.

Thanks to Barbara for driving, and for her knowledge of birds.
