

Saturday March 9, 2024, Buntzen Lake to Sasamat Lake, Hike Lead: Rimka Laman

There were just the 4 of us on this cloudy day. The forecast promised for a fair bit of rain. We did see many cars in the parking lots at Buntzen but saw only a few people and dogs on our hike. Where were those people hiding? We arrived at Sasamat Lake just after 11:00 am and started to take our lunches out at the picnic table when it started to get very gusty with a few raindrops. So we decided to shelter under the trees to eat our lunches. We hurried back at a good pace to avoid any downpour as the sky was getting quite dark. And yes, on the way driving home, the rain really came pounding down.
