

On a cloudy day, five BOCers set off to complete the Little River and Shaggy Mane Loops in this rural Langley park.

Its history dates from 1886 when the area was first farmed. This continued to 1973 when the land was acquired by Metro Vancouver.

Now it features a variety of landscapes with marshland, forests, an extensive trail system, and a hidden, historic (and still intact) car racetrack dating from the 1960s -- Langley Speedway. Horses and cross-country equestrian jumps also feature prominently here.

Thanks to Su-Jane and Bernie for the photos.
