

What a great day for a hike ! Clear and sunny conditions prevailed as we made our way up this rugged trail. After reaching the Brockton Point turnoff, the views became more and more expansive. We could see other hikers atop Peak 1 and after more steep sections, our group joined them.

Here there were unspoiled vistas from Garibaldi to Mt. Baker, Vancouver Island to Golden Ears and beyond. Far below, boats sped up and down Indian Arm.

The route to Peak 2 was short but still very rocky. We enjoyed the peace and quiet of this summit before slowly making our way back to the parking lot.
